The C.O.R.E. Checklist

Four places marketing cracks. One test at a time, in order. Fix it from the foundation up.

C Client: Who you serve

People cannot tell who your marketing is for, so they assume it is not for them.

- [ ] Show your homepage to a stranger for 5 seconds. Ask who it is for, what you do and what to do next.
- [ ] Finish this sentence without the word "and": I help ___ who are stuck on ___ get ___.

What I found:

O Offer: What you sell

A long list of services makes the choice hard, and a hard choice becomes no choice.

- [ ] Count the services on your homepage. More than three means you are not leading with one.
- [ ] Pick the one that is easiest for a new customer to say yes to. That is your lead offer.

What I found:

R Route: How they reach you

Interest leaks out between the first click and the booking.

- [ ] Walk your own path as a stranger: ad or post, page, form, thank-you page.
- [ ] Write down every point where someone must think, scroll, or fill in more than they have to.

What I found:

E Engine: What you track and repeat

Without tracking and follow-up you are guessing, and you cannot fix what you cannot see.

- [ ] Write down where your last five clients came from. If you hesitate, you have found the crack.
- [ ] Add one question to every form and call: how did you hear about us?

What I found:

Which one first? Start with the first area where you could not tick both boxes. A crack above leaks into everything below it.
